

Revised child support guidelines took effect July 1, 2007. These changes extend the support tables out to net monthly incomes up to $15,000. In addition, health insurance is treated differently in the child support worksheets...now appearing as a deduction from net income, not gross income. This change is designed to assist the parent who is paying for dependent health insurance better than in the old guidelines.

See www.supremecourt.ne.gov/rules/amendments/ChildSupportRuleAmds.pdf for the full text of the changes